2021 Women in Commercial Real Estate: Adele Vittozzi, Assistant Project Manager, Scalora Consulting Group

September 24, 2021 - Spotlights

Adele Vittozzi
Assistant Project Manager

What led you to your current profession? My childhood brought me to where I am today – although I never expected this to be my career path. I watched my father renovate our two-family house and I wondered where he gained the knowledge to do the work himself, especially as he wasn't in the construction industry. I fell into construction when I took a clerical position with a general contractor. Once on site, my childhood memories came back, and I knew this was where I was meant to be. Construction became my passion and my career. I love having an ever-changing scenery and gaining new knowledge daily.
