Construction Institute

Hartford, CT The 2022 Visionaries Forum - The Construction Institute's Visionaries Forum is the premier platform for trendsetters and thought leaders to look at what is next in the design and construction industry. On March 10, 2022 the annual Visionaries Forum will return to the Mark Twain House in Hartford, CT.

Innovation is changing at lightning speed in the design and construction industry. The Visionaries' Forum takes a deep dive into the technologies, ideas, processes, and automation that will be driving our future. These are the cutting-edge leaders in the design and construction industry who will share their thoughts on the issues that will shape the future. This year's visionaries are experts in industrialized construction, disruptive computational design and robotic hybrid fabrication, leveraging big data and advanced analytics to improve performance, and innovative, sustainable materials.

They have their pulse on the investment in new technologies that will disrupt and transform the industry.

- Amy Marks, VP, industrialized construction strategy and evangelism with Autodesk (moderator)
- Jit Kee Chin, EVP, chief data and innovation officer, Suffolk Construction Co.
- Hal Hinkle, CEO, BamCor
- Mania Aghaei Meibodi, assistant professor of Architecture, University of Michigan
- Curtis Rodgers, principal, Brick & Mortar Ventures and founder, The Society for Construction Solutions

The 7th Annual Women Who Build Summit – UMass, Amherst, April 13-14, 2022

This is New England's largest annual conference celebrating women in the AEC industry. The theme of this year's conference is "Instigate, Inspire, Influence." The two-day conference includes two keynotes, breakout sessions, expert panel discussions, and focused workshops, with presentations by regional, national, and international speakers, all designed to spark interactions between attendees.

"You leave this event feeling supercharged and ready to tackle the world. A "must attend" for anyone in the construction industry!" - Anamaria Popescu, managing director, Berkeley Research Group
