Horizons Engineering acquires White Mountain Survey & Engineering

February 04, 2022 - Northern New England

Littleton, NH Horizons Engineering Inc. has acquired White Mountain Survey & Engineering, Inc. of Ossipee. With their new presence, Horizons now totals 8 offices placed across Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine, expanding their capabilities to better serve the northern New England region.

White Mountain Survey & Engineering offices and staff will remain under the leadership of James Rines, PE, LLS, CPESC, who was the firm's first employee in 1977. The practice brings nearly 45 years of expert witness testimony, civil engineering, survey, land planning, shoreland permitting and septic design to the robust services Horizons has been providing to New England for nearly 20 years. "We are thrilled to bring WMS&E, a firm known for its courteous and responsive team of professionals with deep local knowledge, into the Horizons family," said Rines. "By joining forces, we strengthen our growing practice and support all of our clients more fully. I am confident the similarly aligned missions of Horizons Engineering and White Mountain Survey & Engineering will lead to improving the quality of life for people we serve across the northeast."

Horizons Engineering CEO, Jon Warzocha, PG, managing the acquisition said, "Horizons is very much looking forward to bringing the expertise and enthusiasm of WMS&E into the firm. The addition of WMS&E adds a talented group of like-minded land survey and engineering professionals to our team, and further expands our geographic footprint allowing us to better serve our clients and communities."
