SGA receives Best of Practice Award

September 23, 2022 - Construction Design & Engineering

Boston, MA SGA, an award-winning architecture, design, and master planning firm specializing in life sciences, corporate and academic design, has received the 2022 “Best of Practice” Award from The Architect’s Newspaper.

Other awards received by SGA so far this year include being an honoree in Boston Business Journal’s “Fast 50” and inclusion in the “Top 100 Giants” by Interior Design Magazine.

“SGA synthesizes their sustainable architecture, design, and planning expertise into a novel building technology framework that accelerates the impact of new innovation on society by means of flexible life science lab facilities that are designed to evolve,” said DK Osseo-Assare, a juror on The Architect’s Newspaper’s 2022 “Best of Practice” Awards and co-founding principal of Low Design Office.

“We’re truly honored to receive this award from The Architect’s Newspaper and be recognized by industry peers as a leader in architecture and design,” said John Sullivan, AIA, president of architecture at SGA.
