Brown Harris Stevens Conn. awards scholarships

November 18, 2022 - Connecticut

Greenwich, CT Brown Harris Stevens Connecticut, in partnership with Person to Person, has named the inaugural recipients of the Brown Harris Stevens Scholarship Fund. Each year through an application process, 10 local Fairfield County students will receive $20,000 in funds to help them reach their higher education goals. The inaugural Brown Harris Stevens Scholars are pursuing degrees from engineering and math to psychology and childhood education.

“We want to congratulate all of the inaugural Brown Harris Stevens scholars on their hard-earned achievements. BHS is incredibly proud to offer our support to our local students as they continue their education journeys,” said Christopher Halstead, executive sales director, Brown Harris Stevens Connecticut. “None of this would have been possible without Person-to-Person for their partnership in launching the Brown Harris Stevens Scholarship Fund and for all the important work they do uplifting our communities.”

“We are grateful to have such a strong partner in Brown Harris Stevens. This scholarship makes college attainable for ten local talented and motivated students, and helps Person to Person reach our goal of offering close to 100 college scholarships each year. We congratulate the scholars and thank Brown Harris Stevens for this generous support,” said Nancy Coughlin, CEO, Person to Person.
