Finegold Alexander Architects receives AIA Award

December 23, 2022 - Construction Design & Engineering

Boston, MA Finegold Alexander Architects received the 2022 AIA New England Components Emerging Professional Friendly Firm Award. AIA New England's award program highlights architecture firms that promote the advancement of emerging professionals through a combination of professional development and personal growth opportunities.

This honor highlights Finegold Alexander Architects' values and dedication to promoting its emerging professionals and sustaining the future growth of the practice. Qualifications for this award and for an emerging professional are set by the American Institute of Architects (AIA), defined as professionals who have completed their academic studies up to the point of licensure or up to 10 years after completion of their academic studies, including students and architects licensed 10 years or less.

Finegold Alexander Architects prides itself on its history and culture of guiding emerging professionals, embracing each member of the firm, and enabling unity and collaborative achievement across the board. Finegold Alexander implements an employee mentorship program that provides guidance and opportunities for staff to discuss goals and growth. Mentors and mentees meet throughout the year to discuss anything from career goals to project specific challenges.

Finegold Alexander Architects is focused on creating architecture for public, private, and mission-driven organizations. Whether it's new construction or renovation, the projects are integrated into the physical, cultural, and environmental contexts. The firm has longstanding expertise in historic preservation and adaptive reuse with sector focus areas of civic, cultural, development, higher ed and K-12. Finegold Alexander has worked on iconic Boston projects such as The Lucas at 136 Shawmut Ave., The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and various work with universities such as Tufts, Harvard, and MIT. Finegold Alexander recently launched FA Energy; a new branch of the firm dedicated to helping clients meet commitments to reducing carbon emissions.
