January 06, 2023 - Front Section

Cambridge, MA East Cambridge Savings Bank, a $1.6 billion in assets mutual bank, received the 2022 Boston Business Journal Corporate Citizenship Award, a recognition of the region's top corporate charitable contributors. The Business Journal annually publishes this list to showcase companies that promote and prioritize giving back to their communities.

"As a local bank, and as a mutual bank, contributing to organizations that meet basic human needs and serve the most vulnerable is something we have been doing for decades. Not only does this happen in the form of monetary support, but also through volunteering, serving on boards, and striving to be a true partner to these organizations. To be recognized for that with the Corporate Citizenship Award validates the tireless efforts of the entire bank as we work to give back to the communities we serve," said Gilda Nogueira, the bank's president and CEO.

This year 95 companies have qualified for the distinction by reporting at least $100,000 in cash contributions to Massachusetts-based charities last year. The honorees this year include companies from such industry sectors as financial and professional services, health care, technology, retail, and professional sports.

"It is truly an honor for East Cambridge Savings Bank to be recognized as one of the most charitable companies in Massachusetts, and it only inspires us to keep connecting with and serving our communities," said Gilda M. Nogueira, the Bank's president and CEO.

"The past couple of years has presented companies and communities with many challenges, and the needs have continued to grow. It is with honor that we present our list of the Top Charitable Contributors in Massachusetts – companies who gave $100,000 or more to Mass.-based in charities in 2021. Collectively, they gave $322 million in cash contributions, a true example of the business community coming together to help those in need. We are proud to celebrate these organizations who give both money and time to make Boston a stronger and better place for all." said Boston Business Journal market president and publisher Carolyn Jones.
