Nordblom Co. promotes Fremont-Smith to senior VP

October 23, 2008 - Front Section

The Nordblom Co. has promoted Todd Fremont-Smith to senior VP of development and director of mixed use projects. Fremont-Smith will oversee the permitting, development, and leasing of commercial assets. Fremont-Smith has developed property on behalf of corporate users and real estate investors, and has extensive experience investing in and transforming older, obsolete properties into successful second-generation assets.

Fremont-Smith is master-planning the redevelopment of Northwest Park in Burlington, a 3.28 million s/f mixed-use development off Rte. 128. Northwest Park is slated to be redeveloped into a high-density, vertically-integrated, mixed-use neighborhood, with 600,000 s/f of retail, restaurants, multifamily units and more than 2 million s/f of class-A office space. ??

"We have a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to create a world-class destination here in Burlington. This project is one of the most exciting mixed-use developments in the country, and I have been extremely pleased by the many folks here in Burlington and at the state level who have championed our vision for Northwest Park," said Fremont-Smith.

"Todd is a tremendous asset to the organization as he brings boundless energy to our development projects," said Peter Nordblom, president of Nordblom.
