Boston, MA Mayor Michelle Wu, and developers from Noannet Group, Cain International and Saunders Hotel Group celebrated the ribbon cutting of the new Raffles Boston at 430 Stuart St. The 35-story property is a new hotel from the illustrious hospitality brand, Raffles Hotels & Resorts.

The property represents the first mixed-use development in North America for the 136-year-old Raffles brand, marking a new era for the legendary collection.

Raffles Boston features 147 guestrooms and 147 residences. It boasts gathering spaces, including a speakeasy in the sky, a Guerlin spa, and a 20-meter indoor pool. Several new restaurants are now open to the public: Amar from Michelin starred chef George Mendes and Long Bar Terrace and Café overlooking the city. La Padrona from chef Jody Adams will also soon join the property.
