Kehoe joins Consigli as director of advanced technology

February 16, 2024 - Construction Design & Engineering

James Kehoe

Milford, MA According to Consigli Construction Co., Inc., James Kehoe has joined the firm as director of advanced technology. In this new role, Kehoe will lead Consigli's growth and business development strategy in the advanced technology market.

Kehoe brings more than two decades of industry experience in construction, commissioning and design of large-scale facilities and has delivered projects for notable clients in the semiconductor, microelectronics and pharmaceutical industries.

His leadership and expertise will support Consigli's continued efforts in the Advanced Technology market and will build on the firm's successful track record with clients such as Analog Devices, MIT Lincoln Laboratory, The Engine, General Dynamics, Saint-Gobain, Orsted, and Raytheon.

"The Advanced Technology market sector represents the construction of some of the most complex and sophisticated building systems, and James' demonstrated track record of success leading the design and construction of specialized facilities will be an invaluable resource for Consigli," said Brian Hamilton, Vice President. "We are excited to welcome him to Consigli, and we look forward to all that he will bring to our projects and team."
