Peabody Properties adds Phil C. Bradley Housing Partnership to property management portfolio

March 01, 2024 - Owners Developers & Managers

Boston, MA Peabody Properties, an affiliate of the Peabody Companies, a group of property management and real estate firms, continues to expand its portfolio of managed communities with the addition of the Phil C. Bradley Housing Partnership at 342 Shawmut Ave.

The property is located along Shawmut Ave. and Tremont St., an area of the city’s South End that experienced a revival at the end of the last century. It encompasses 13 brownstones built in 1920.

The Partnership was established in 1997 and named after Phil C. Bradley, a former city councilor and community activist who advocated for affordable housing and social justice. Since its inception, it has been recognized as a beacon of community and diversity and a bulwark against blight and community deterioration with a purpose to improve and transform the living conditions among low and moderate-income individuals in the ethnically diverse neighborhood.

“Imagine a building where the walls, once threatened by the expiration of subsidies, are now reinforced with a commitment to keeping the spirit of homeownership within reach for its residents,” said Luis Casiano, asset manager and project director of Bradley Properties.

“This property is more than a collection of 71 units,” said Melissa Fish-Crane, principal and CEO of Peabody Properties. “It is a vibrant community, home to people from all backgrounds and life experiences. We look forward to getting to know the residents at the Phil C. Bradley Partnership and to continue its mission to provide affordable housing and honor the legacy of its namesake.”
