Ironworkers Local 7 donated coats & winter gear to Rosie's Place

January 31, 2025 - Front Section

Boston, MA Members of Ironworkers Local 7 donated coats and other winter gear to women living at Rosie's Place, the oldest women's shelter in the United States.

"Local 7 works in the community every day and our members take great pride in helping others meet their needs, especially during the holidays," said Local 7 business manager Vinny Coyle. "With frigid weather upon us, we are proud to do our part to help women and families in need in Greater Boston, especially those who are struggling during the holiday season."

Several Local 7 volunteers visited Rosie's Place in the South End and delivered boxes of donated coats, hats, gloves and other winter items for the women living at the shelter. The donation is part of Local 7's holiday charitable efforts, as well as an ongoing campaign to better local communities through volunteerism and outreach.
