"With the recent Londonderry transaction and now this transaction on Candia Rd. in Manchester, it's clear there's an appetite for industrial space in New Hampshire. Whether it's an investor looking for a stable market or a company looking to take advantage of all New Hampshire has to offer, the demand just keeps going up. We're seeing more and more companies relocating to New Hampshire to take advantage of all we have to offer. The need for this type of space hasn't slowed down," Brown said.
