Sullivan Construction finalizes shell and common areas of building for Summit Land Development

March 21, 2025 - Construction Design & Engineering

Dover, NH Sullivan Construction has completed the shell and common areas for a 44,000 s/f medical office building developed by Summit Land Development. Sullivan Construction and Market Square Architects worked seamlessly to complete this design build project. This modern facility was designed to meet the evolving needs of the healthcare community while enhancing patient and provider experiences.

The exterior is a combination of three different types of architectural exterior aluminum panels, storefront and windows, with a cultured stone veneer at the base of the exterior walls.

“This project combines functionality with aesthetic appeal to create an inviting space,” said Tom Sullivan Sr., CEO of Sullivan Construction. “The architectural design by Market Square Architects emphasizes innovation and efficiency, reflecting the latest trends in medical office construction. We are thrilled to have brought this project to life. This state-of-the-art facility underscores our commitment to excellence and our dedication to supporting healthcare infrastructure in New England.”

This project aligns with Sullivan Construction’s mission to build trust and relationships while delivering high-quality results. The company’s focus on collaboration, craftsmanship, and attention to detail ensured the timely completion of the project, positioning the building as a cornerstone of medical services in the region.
