LC Anderson and FirstCall Mechanical form partnership

September 19, 2025 - Construction Design & Engineering

Boston, MA LC Anderson has joined forces with FirstCall Mechanical. This partnership positions LC Anderson to expand its capabilities, invest in growth, and continue delivering the exceptional service and expertise that customers have come to trust since 1943.

LC Anderson will retain its name and continue operating under its current leadership team, building on its strong reputation for keeping clients focused on their business – not their buildings. The partnership will enable LC Anderson to strengthen its service offerings, expand career opportunities for employees, and accelerate growth in its target markets. Customers will continue to work with the same trusted team members and receive the same high-quality service they've come to expect. – now with the added support of a national network of resources.

“This is an exciting milestone for LC Anderson,” said Karl Hudson, co-president. “Partnering with FirstCall gives us access to resources and expertise that will help us grow, invest in our team, and enhance the value we bring to our customers. What won’t change is our unwavering commitment to problem-solving, reliability, and delivering the right solutions for our clients.”

Evan Eachus, CEO of FirstCall Mechanical, added, “LC Anderson is a well-respected name in the commercial HVACR industry, with a proven track record across life sciences, healthcare, private education, and manufacturing. We’re thrilled to welcome the LC Anderson team to FirstCall and look forward to building on their legacy together.”
