Vicinity Energy hosts members of the Women's Energy Network Boston for a tour of its Kendall Sq. facility

October 17, 2025 - Front Section

Cambridge, MA Vicinity Energy hosted members of the Women's Energy Network Boston for a tour of its Kendall Sq. facility. The visit highlighted how the company's district energy system serves more than 71 million s/f of space across Boston and Cambridge, and provided an overview of plans to decarbonize operations, including development of an industrial-scale heat pump complex. As part of an international network of over 7,000 members, ranging from emerging professionals to seasoned leaders and entrepreneurs, the Boston chapter of the Women's Energy Network Boston is focused on building a local community that is committed to education, career development and advocacy.
