Right Start and The Help Group National Autism Foundation hold toy drive

December 24, 2008 - Retail

This holiday season, Right Start, a national specialty retailer of juvenile products for infants and young children, in collaboration with The Help Group National Autism Foundation, will conduct a toy drive in all of its 36 store locations throughout the U.S. This wonderful program will brighten the holiday season for children with autism and other special needs, ages 5 and under, whose families have limited financial means.

The Help Group National Autism Foundation, established under the auspices of The Help Group - the nation's largest and most comprehensive nonprofit of its kind serving children with autism and other special needs - welcomes the opportunity to collaborate with Right Start to create greater awareness about the special needs community and to reach out to even more children and families this holiday season.

The holiday toy drive will kicked-off on November 20th and continues through December 31st.
