Related Group develops and previews $1.3 billion Icon Brickell

December 31, 2008 - Front Section

World-renowned designer and creative director for Yoo, Philippe Starck, arrived in Miami to preview the Icon Brickell, developed and built by Related Group chairman and CEO, Jorge Perez and Arquitectonica founding principal, Bernard Fort-Brescia.

The trio gathered with select media for guided tours of the $1.3 billion dollar project and to discuss its architecture, design, amenities and service.

During a luncheon and conversation moderated by architectural writer Beth Dunlop, Starck shared the evolution of the whimsical, world-class concept and interior design created by his international residential design company Yoo, based in London, UK. In their inimitable style, Yoo touched on the inspiration for the lobby that creates a seamless line of color and context from outside through the yellow glass at the entrance and orchard of trees on the pool deck and 28,000 square foot spa with a Yoo inspired by Philippe Starck-designed theater, party room and treatment rooms.

Developer Jorge Perez highlighted his motivation for building his largest, bayfront property to date likened to the Time Warner Center of the Southeast. Sure to be noted as his legacy development, Perez further expanded on why and how art and design have become sought-after keynotes of his properties that have redefined the skylines of Miami and Miami Beach.

Additionally, Perez touted how ICON Brickell will offer residents and hotel guests a new level of personalized service through Viceroy Miami at Icon Brickell, a signature Kor boutique hotel with rooms and public spaces by star designer Kelly Wearstler.

Bernardo Fort-Brescia illustrated the novel challenges of creating the island-style sanctuary of three-encased glass towers that mark an imposing presence while situated on one of Miami's most unique locations; uniting Miami's two major metropolitan areas while providing stunning views of the Miami River, Miami Beach, Key Biscayne and Biscayne Bay.

Icon Brickell will also feature 5 places to dine including two bayside restaurants on the lobby level, a poolside cafe for a light bite to a Viceroy Signature restaurant to late night offerings at the exclusive rooftop sky lounge Club 50.

The international and Miami-based media then retired to the elevated pool terrace 140-feet above Biscayne Bay for a champagne toast to celebrate Miami's newest landmark.
