Landmark constructs 18 housing units for Brookford Development

December 31, 2008 - Owners Developers & Managers

Landmark Structures Corp., a leading full service general contractor/construction management Co., has been awarded a contract from New Boston Ventures to construct 18 affordable housing units for Brookford Dalin Dean Homes in Roxbury.

The $4.3 million project, which is currently underway, will encompass 7 two-family buildings and 4 single-family buildings in the Dudley area. A summer 2009 completion date is anticipated.

The Brookford Dalin Dean St. Homes Development project is a partnership of the city of Boston's department of neighborhood development, Dudley Neighbors, Inc., New Boston Ventures and Dudley St. Neighborhood Initiative.

Steve Rigione of Stull & Lee Architects in Boston serves as architect for the project.

"As a community-based builder, Landmark Structures brings an intimate understanding of the local landscape to our projects," said William Glasser, president/CEO of Landmark Structures. "We're proud to have worked on this affordable housing project that will provide another residential choice for low income residents in the Roxbury area."
