Boyd and Ney join Diversified Project Management as project managers

December 31, 2008 - Owners Developers & Managers

Diversified Project Management (DPM), one of New England's premier owners representative firms providing programming, project management, construction administration, FF&E coordination and move-planning services, has hired two project managers.

Martha Boyd recently joined DPM as a project manager and Greg Ney has joined as an assistant project manager.

"Boyd and Ney bring Diversified Project Management years of experience successfully managing and executing real estate and facilities projects in healthcare," said Bob Keeley, president of DPM.

"We welcome them to our growing team of professionals and look forward to working with them."

Boyd has over 17 years of hands-on experience in leading and executing renovation and new construction projects from the initiation stage through planning, design, and construction, including a $43 million national award winning hospital expansion. Prior to joining DPM, Boyd served as program manager at Dulles, Virginia-based BRG Resource Group/AOL Corp.

Prior to joining DPM, Ney served as medical equipment planning and acquisition consultant for Partners HealthCare Systems, Inc.
