Meet the BSA Member - David Dirubbo

July 14, 2009 - Construction Design & Engineering

As president and co-founder of Acella Construction, Dirubbo is responsible for setting the overall direction of the company. This includes overseeing the construction operations, project management and estimating. Dirubbo's passion for construction has allowed him to lead Acella's project management teams to successfully complete every project awarded to them.

His willingness to listen to clients concerns and act accordingly, has led to Acella's continued growth through numerous repeat clients. Prior to co-founding Acella Construction, Dirubbo spent ten years as a project manager and a senior project manager at Lee Kennedy Company and Walsh Brothers. Over the course of Dirubbo's career, he's been responsible for more than $200 million in construction.

He received a Bachelor's Degree in Management from Bentley College and holds an unrestricted Massachusetts State Supervisors License.
