Hannah Real Estate Investors and Stillwater Investment Mgmt. lease 146 units at Glenview House

August 18, 2009 - Connecticut

Award-winning project developers Seth Weinstein, principal of Hannah Real Estate Investors and his partners Paxton and Ray Kinol of Stillwater Investment Management have fully leased all 146 residences in their luxury rental apartment building, Glenview House, in a record-breaking eight months. Located on the corner of East Main St. and Glenbrook Rd., Glenview House is the first new luxury rental community constructed in Stamford in the last five years. Residents were drawn to the building by the location, high end finishes, amenities and the convenience of Stamford's first Walgreens store in the building's 15,000 s/f of street-level retail space.

With Glenview House operating at peak performance, the development team is now focusing on the successful completion of Eastside Commons, its companion project located just one block away at 850 East Main St. Eastside Commons, a community of 108 new luxury residential units, is now 100% completed and has just received its final certificate of occupancy. Already, over 45% of the luxury residences at Eastside Commons are sold or leased.

Eastside Commons is within two blocks of I-95 and a mile of the Metro-North Train Station that provides express commuter train service to New York City.
